An adventure in colours, shape and form. In this collection I am trying to find myself in the primary elements of art. Normally I create from a place of complex ideas and trying to tie my style together with things I have read or things I feel drawn toward. It gives me results that I am happy with but the fun is kept at a limit.

With the FORMLESS collection I realized that this way of thinking is overrated. I was going with my gut on this one. To go with the flow. From the shapes to the colours. I was going with the first thing that comes into mind. From my studies of the greats [Basquiat, Mark Rothko, George Condo & Jackson Pollock].

Keep the concept of ‘not letting anything cloud your creativity‘ in mind. To put yellow where you wish and to scribble like a 5 year old in art class. That was my thought process throughout the whole collection.

Enjoy.
